Mississauga, Ontario, Canada, Dec 10th, 2020 – Are you filing for an uncontested divorce? Do you want to settle the disputes with your spouse? You are on the right track. In Canada, the law views marriage as a financial partnership when two parties join together and form a relationship; however, when this relationship breaks, the spouse with more income has to pay the other spouse to equalize the monetary situation. In an uncontested divorce, both parties are typically in agreement on the issues, such as child custody, access, and spousal support. A lawyer takes into account several factors when deciding how much spousal support should be paid to the other spouse and the length of time for its payment, in case of an uncontested divorce.

‘There are reasons why clients in Mississauga opt for us to resolve their family law matters. They are certain that our law firm has the knowledge and expertise to represent their case in the persistently changing legal domain keenly.’ Said the company representative of Divorce Fast, a law firm owned by Kala Law Firm Professional Corporation. Our team of lawyers has all the required tools to get meaningful results in intricate situations. First and foremost, our firm deploys state-of-the-art technology and equipment to let our clients always be informed and engaged in their cases.

Depending on the situation you are facing while filing for an uncontested divorce in Mississauga, our divorce lawyer will act accordingly. If one of the spouses is abusive and there’s a danger of violence against the other spouse and a child or children, it becomes extremely important for the abused spouse to get a restraining order against the abusive spouse. The sufferer should also file an urgent application for the child's temporary custody (children) to get support by law and sole possession of the marital home.
